Legal/Contractual Obligation

The right to mental health care in jail or detention is legally mandated under Federal and State law. When an individual is arrested and detained, the obligation for mental health care falls upon the government as a matter of constitutional law, enforceable under the U.S. Constitution's 8th Amendment and the 5th and 14th Amendments' due process clauses. Failure to provide mental health care amounts to deliberate indifference to serious medical needs, for which the County is liable.
