Executive Summary

Addiction Services Administration manages resources for alcohol/drug treatment, addiction prevention, and problem gambling services for adults, adolescents, and children. Administration is responsible for monitoring and improving the availability, accessibility, and quality of services for addicted persons and prevention services for youth and families. Collaborates with County, State, and community stakeholders.

Program Description

This administrative program is responsible for the direct development of local alcohol/drug treatment services, addiction prevention services, and problem gambling services offered through a community delivery system. They provide oversight, coordination, and management of contracted services including prevention programs, residential treatment, outpatient treatment, alcohol and drug-free supportive housing, sobering, detoxification, gambling treatment, and aftercare programs delivered through a diverse network of providers.

Annually, an estimated 101,979 people in Multnomah County are in need of alcohol or other drug treatment. (Source: 2002 Multnomah County Data Book.) In fiscal year 2001-2002, the total number of clients served was 18,142. (Source: Multnomah County Alcohol & Drug Biennial Implementation Plan, 2003-05.)

In addition to forging partnerships within the community and at the State Alcohol & Drug office, and LPSCC, the administration program works with DCJ A&D managers to assess the continuum of services it provides for gaps or barriers and in order to respond to the changing needs of Multnomah County residents. The Program Office assist in designing systems that provide high quality, culturally competent services to the greatest number of individuals in the most cost-effective way. They are also responsible for monitoring and adjusting the system to accommodate changes in funding or regulatory requirements.

Program Justification

Addiction Services Administration is directly linked to the priority team strategies through its role in developing partnerships within the community as well as collaborating with other County departments. Addictions Services Administration also assumes responsibility for creating and maintaining a comprehensive continuum of care that serves vulnerable addicted citizens who have no other means of accessing these services.
