Executive Summary

Eligibility is the entryway to introduce potential customers to County Developmental Disability Services. This program also provides investigation of serious events and alleged abuse of adults with developmental disabilities, recommends action and follow-up on results, and reports to State. Protective Services collaborates with local, state and federal law enforcement and the Psychiatric Security Review Board (PSRB).

Program Description

Eligibility opens the door to developmental disability services through intake social workers. Once eligible as a person with developmental disability, the customer moves into services described under the Children or Adults program offers. Ineligible applicants are helped to connect with other resources. Protective Services is available to any enrolled adult. Protective Services investigates suspected abuse, neglect, or exploitation, and forwards recommendations. A serious event review team ensures follow-up to incident reports and open investigations.

Program Justification

Eligibility identifies and directs customers to appropriate county services and programs. Protective Services works with other helping agencies, including the police, Domestic Violence, and hospitals to ensure that appropriate health and safety measures are taken. This program offer protects vulnerable customers.
