Executive Summary

For several years the City of Portland has provided training in Crisis Intervention techniques, specifically that training involving contact with mentally ill persons. The purpose of the Crisis Intervention training is to use understanding and skills gained through specific training to identify and provide the most effective and compassionate response possible to police situations involving people in a mental health crisis. PPB provides the training and has allocated 60 slots to MCSO. 50 of the slots will be used by Enforcement Deputies to complete the training for all in that Division (Offer A) and 10 slots by Corrections Deputies who come into contact with the public in the community on a regular basis.

Program Offer "B" adds 10 Corrections Deputies to receive CIT training. The deputies selected for the training would be members assigned to field units with direct public contact, who deal with people in crisis, are fully armed, and have a duty to both protect and assist members of the public.

Program Description

Crisis intervention training emphasizes "best practice" protocols for law enforcement officers who, during the course of their duties, come into contact with mentally ill persons. Organizations ranging from Multnomah County's Public Safety Coordinating Council to Oregon Partners in Crisis have been calling for all law enforcement officers to receive 40-hours of CIT. By including Corrections positions that are armed and engage with the public, the County can further its commitment to creating successful contact with persons in crisis by ensuring uniformed personnel responding to persons in crisis are fully trained to respond to such persons.

Program Justification

The CIT program directly addresses the Safety priority strategy of "Address the mental health needs of offenders requiring treatment" by providing deputies with the training to recognize potentially mentally ill offenders.
