Executive Summary

The Juvenile Court Trial Unit prosecutes juvenile crimes ranging from misdemeanors to homicides. It has three primary functions: delinquency: prosecuting juveniles who have committed criminal offenses; dependency: litigating child protection cases in Juvenile Court; Termination of Parental Rights: litigating cases where the abuse or neglect of a child has reached such a level that effort must be made to free the child for adoption. This offer would allow the Neighborhood DA program to continue at 2008 service levels.

Program Description

The Delinquency function involves the prosecution of juveniles who have committed non-Ballot Measure 11 crimes. This includes cases ranging from misdemeanors to felonies to homicides. The unit works closely with the Department of Juvenile Community Justice (DCJ) in developing appropriate sanctions aimed at accountability, community protection and reformation.

The dependency function involves working closely with the State Department of Human Services (DHS) and other agencies to protect children who come to the attention of authorities as a result of abuse or neglect. Deputy District Attorneys are responsible for litigating child protection cases (dependency cases) in Juvenile Court and for working with DHS and other agencies and partners to fashion plans which will provide protection for the child and opportunities for the parents to mitigate the dangers which brought the child to the attention of the court in the first place.

Reduction in a level II DDA position will require us to consider and make choices about the activities that we are able to remain involved in, and at what level of participation in light of increased appearances and workload.

Case planning conferences are an important interaction between our office and the DHS case workers as we plan for the well being of children who are temporarily committed to DHS. A reduction of a Level II DDA would also require us to look at whether or not we continue to do case planning conferences due to increased caseloads, hearings and time constraints.

Program Justification

The Juvenile Trial unit is the gatekeeper to the juvenile justice system. The program works in close collaboration with local law enforcement and the Department of Community Justice in prosecuting and holding accountable, high, medium and low level youth offenders.

The program also keeps our most vulnerable population safe by intervening early when children are at risk, collaborating with others to alleviate that risk and working to free abused and neglected children for adoption by stable families when reunification efforts are exhausted.
