Executive Summary

The Turn Self In (TSI) program is a sentencing alternative for the judiciary. TSI allows an offender to be sentenced to weekend jail time, allowing for offenders to maintain their employment or other obligations. Two Correction Deputy FTE are associated with this program.

Program Description

The weekend TSI program at the Courthouse Jail saves the County money by not introducing these inmates into the Jail system which avoids the full booking and release process as well as the costs associated with Jail beds. The TSI program uses a much less complex check in and processing procedure, only needs to provide a sack lunch meal for the day and has simpler release requirements. The TSI program averages 50 inmates a day, for a total of 5,200 bed days per year.

Some of the sentenced weekenders perform community service in the form of doing work in the courthouse itself during their stay. This also contributes to the maintenance of the building - they perform basic cleaning chores, some as simple as cleaning the containers the public use to drop personal goods while going through the metal detectors at entry.

Program Justification

TSI's serve their weekend time at the Courthouse Jail so as not to interfere with the rest of the jail system. For those offenders who are employed or have some type of an obligation acceptable to the court, the TSI program provides an opportunity to maintain employment. Without the TSI program judges will have to sentence offenders to probation or jail. With the level of offender normally sentenced to TSI, probation will be the likely option.
