Executive Summary

Many individuals who commit property crimes are also addicted to alcohol or drugs. In an attempt to decrease additional felony convictions and hold people accountable both the State Department of Corrections and the Oregon Criminal Justice Commission invested monies into comprehensive programming for this population DCJ submitted and received funding for the Recidivism Addiction Intervention Network (RAIN) and the Support Through Accountability, Restitution and Treatment (START) court. Both of these programs are multi-disciplined in nature and the monies were divided amongst a variety of stakeholders.

These programs were funded through the passage of Measure 57 during 2008 which had limited monies dedicated to alcohol and drug treatment.

Program Description

Both the RAIN and START programs require stringent drug testing, supervision and case management services through a parole/probation officer, funding for jail beds or jail transition services, and alcohol and drug treatment. Additionally, the START Drug Court supports staff services at the Court, District Attorney's Office and Metropolitan Public Defenders.

There are specific criteria for selection to each program. The funding agencies are doing the evaluations of each program and expected to report back to the legislature on the results.

The RAIN program has a staff member from a drug treatment program housed at the DCJ Office and there is treatment on demand. Parole/probation officers work closely with jail counselors so that expectations are reinforced for offenders, if they are sanctioned to jail. DCJ and treatment staff members co-facilitate aftercare groups and individual "check-ups" at the office, even after formal treatment ends. Capacity is 100 offenders per year.

The START Drug Court integrates outpatient treatment with frequent judicial interaction. START imposes swift and sure consequences for program violations, and uses incentives for positive changes. Capacity is 200 offenders per year.
